What is Sadqa?

Linguistically, Sadqa means voluntary charity or an act of kindness given for the sake of Allah. Sadqa is the practice of giving voluntarily from one's wealth, time, skills, or resources to help others and seek the pleasure of Allah. It reflects a believer's generosity, compassion, and care for those in need.

Sadqa is not limited to financial assistance; every good deed performed sincerely for Allah, including acts of kindness and support for others, is considered a form of Sadqa.

The Importance of Sadqa

Giving from one's wealth is a sign of gratitude and obedience to Allah. Sadqa reminds believers that every blessing is a trust from Allah and should be shared with those who are in need.

"The example of those who spend their wealth in the way of Allah is like a seed that grows seven ears; in every ear are one hundred grains."

Qur'an 2:261

Regularly giving Sadqa strengthens faith, promotes compassion, and encourages believers to help those facing hardship. It also supports charitable causes, humanitarian relief, and community development.

Sadqa therefore serves as both an act of worship and a continuous reminder of generosity, accountability, and service to humanity.

Who Receives Sadqa?

Sadqa is given voluntarily to individuals or organizations that provide genuine benefit according to Islamic values.

It may be used to support:

- Families in need
- Orphans and widows
- Medical assistance
- Educational support
- Community welfare projects

The purpose of Sadqa is to relieve hardship, strengthen communities, and support those in need while earning the pleasure of Allah.

"Whatever you spend of good is for yourselves, and you do not spend except seeking the countenance of Allah."

(Qur'an 2:272)

When Should Sadqa Be Given?

Sadqa may be given at any time throughout the year. Believers are encouraged to give whenever they are able and whenever an opportunity arises to help someone in need. Giving Sadqa consistently helps believers develop generosity, gratitude, and a stronger connection with Allah.

"Whatever you spend of good is for yourselves, and you do not spend except seeking the countenance of Allah."

(Qur'an 2:110)

The Intention Behind Giving

Sadqa should always be given with a sincere intention (Niyyah), seeking only the pleasure of Allah. It should never be given for recognition or personal benefit. The true value of Sadqa lies in sincerity, kindness, and willingness to help others.

"And establish prayer and give charity, and whatever good you put forward for yourselves you will find it with Allah. Indeed, Allah is All-Seeing of what you do."

(Qur'an 2:272)

How Do I Calculate My Sadqa?

Unlike obligatory charity, Sadqa has no fixed percentage. Every believer may contribute according to their ability and circumstances. The amount should be given willingly and sincerely for the sake of Allah. The contribution should be simple, transparent, and made with gratitude for the blessings that Allah has provided.

Simple Steps to Give Sadqa

Before giving your Sadqa:

- Decide the amount you wish to give.
- Help those who are genuinely in need.
- Give sincerely for Allah alone.
- Support charitable causes or community projects.
- Give regularly whenever possible.
- Keep a personal record if necessary.

Regular giving helps believers develop generosity, financial responsibility, and compassion while strengthening their faith.

Examples of Sadqa

Example 1 – Monthly Giving

Monthly Income.....	$5,000
Voluntary Sadqa.....	$200

Example 2 – Helping Others

Food Assistance.....	$100
Medical Support.....	$150
Education Donation.....	$250

Every act of charity given sincerely is valuable in the sight of Allah, regardless of the amount. Even a small contribution can make a meaningful difference in the life of someone in need.

Simple Reminder

Give According to Your Ability × Sincerity = Reward

Important Guidelines

Sadqa should always be given with honesty, gratitude, and sincerity. It is an act of worship that reflects a believer's commitment to Allah and compassion toward others.

When giving Sadqa, remember the following:

- Give with a sincere intention.
- Help those in genuine need.
- Give according to your ability.
- Support charitable work regularly.
- Give without expecting recognition.
- Treat Sadqa as an act of worship.

Spiritual Benefits of Sadqa

Regularly giving Sadqa helps believers develop generosity, self-discipline, and gratitude. It reminds us that every blessing is a trust from Allah and should be shared with others. Through sincere giving, believers seek Allah's pleasure, strengthen their faith, and contribute toward the welfare of the community.

"And whatever good you put forward for yourselves, you will find it with Allah. Indeed, Allah sees all that you do."

(Qur'an 2:110)
